Let's All Recall

"That Wonderful Year, 1963"

The year began with new hopes and new friends, and looking forward to the future, while at the same time knowing the past would never be forgotten.

Remember the Football-O-Rama; the first day of school; that first test; the first time you missed your bus; staying up until 11:30 to finish the float on the last night? Remember Homecoming; the Cross Country Invitationals; the Basketball Sectionals; the last dance; the day the caps and gowns arrived?

As 1963 draws to a close, these and many more memorable moments are locked in our hearts. This year's Chieftain has captured for us, in pictures, these and many more highlights of "That Wonderful Year, 1963".

It's a cold and windy morning as the students begin filing off the buses for a day of school.

Hershel Florence, Alice Buerger and an unidentified person find time to chat between classes.

Today's C.H.S. Student Life

Perhaps the most unforgettable moments of high school memories are those spent with friends in the sometimes "dull rut" of everyday school life. Dancing in the gym at noon, riding a crowded, cold bus on those winter mornings, and even the detention we thought we didn't deserve, will someday be the memories we will share with "old school mates" at class reunions. For all too soon, incidentals that seem unimportant today are the things we will be reliving tomorrow.

But all of our memories, both good and bad, will be so much a part of "That Wonderful Year 1963."

"What's new?" All the latest gossip is talked over during the lunch hours.

Soon To Become Tomorrow's Memories

If we don't sell the candy, we can't have a Prom, is the thought, that pestered Randy Stamper and Angie Torcia as they went out to sell.

Marvin Vanderwater proves that being in a play isn't all work, as he studies his lines.

"Come on let me see them too," is a common expression heard at Calumet from the seniors wanting to see the different styles of name cards.

Slave, Ron Fortner waits patiently as Karen Bjorklund, representative of the Jr. Corp., adds the last books to his almost overwhelming burden. Rayette Ashby, representative of the Sr. Corp., studies the myriad of books.

Juniors And Seniors Bid

Many students and faculty helped in the 1963 Polio Drive by selling and buying peanuts.

"Sold to the junior and senior girls for $30!" The slave sale was officially opened on Monday, January 14, with the sale of Ron Fortner, junior, for $30. It was the first of many projects initiated by C.H.S. students to raise money for the March of Dimes.

Thirty dollars was raised in a bake sale sponsored by the Student Council. The sale was held at Tip Top Supermarket and Montgomery Wards in the Village.

Another competitive project was the "dime climb". The goal was the longest roll of dimes on scotch tape. The contest was between the four classes. Over $150 was netted from this project.

"Peanut Day" was held in late February when 60 cases of peanuts were sold for a nickel a bag.

These industrious freshmen showed Calumet what could be done with hard work as they walked off with first place float honors: Margaret Skidmoe, Jerry Reynolds, Vickie Volk, and Johnny Santos.

The flames fly high and the wood burns as the traditional Homecoming bonfire is lit.

King, Queen, Floats,

Nine hundred Calumet alumni, parents, teachers, and students assembled that cold, windy night of Oct. 24, to witness a most memorable event--the '62-63 Homecoming.

Homecoming plans began a month previous when the Student Council chose "Around the World in 80 Days" as the theme. Each class float was to represent a country. The seniors chose Italy; the juniors, South Pacific; the sophomores selected Holland; and the freshmen, Japan. As the day neared, each class put the finishing touches on their float which was to be displayed and judged in the Homecoming parade.

Festivities began Tuesday, Oct. 23, when the "Revelon Roughnecks" beat the "Patches" 27-7 in the annual powder puff football game sponsored by the G. A. A. The evening ended with the bonfire where both "B" team and varsity cheerleaders led the crowd in cheers before a roaring fire.

The following day, the day of the Homecoming game, an assembly was held to boost the team's spirit. Mr. Robert Joseph, football coach, introduced each senior player, the cheerleaders led the student body in several cheers, and concluded by presenting a cake to the team given by the sophomore class. The queen candidates were introduced by Jerry Poortinga, junior class president.

That night everyone was filled with the excitement and anticipation that only Homecoming can bring. Each student that worked on his class float had a special feeling of pride as the floats proceeded slowly around the track. During half time Ron Sellberg, M. C. announced Shirley Sokol, Homecoming queen, and the winning float, Japan.

The Warrior eleven fought hard and were able to defeat the Eagles of East Gary 27-14.

At the dance that followed, Charles Bewick was named "Mr. Football." Mr. Football and Miss Homecoming led the first dance and reigned the remainder of the evening.

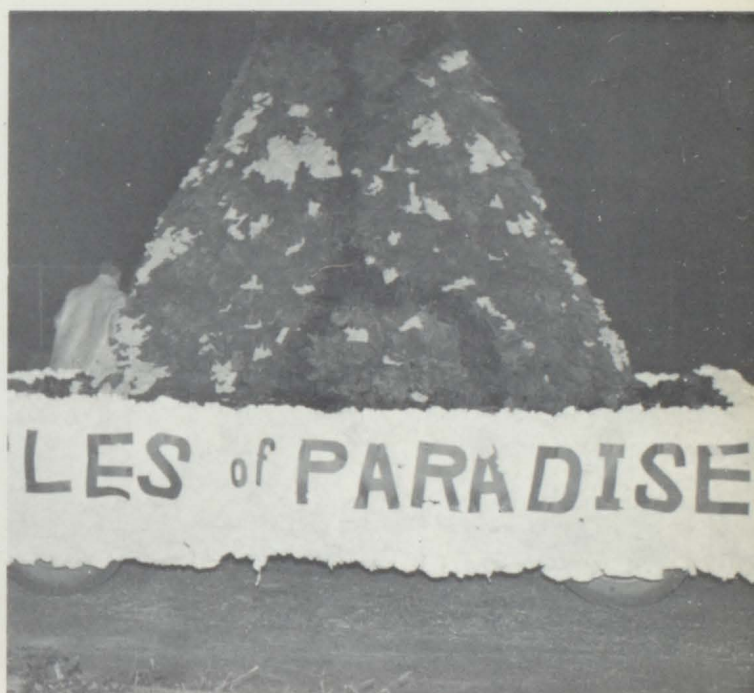

All too soon the dance ended, and the 1962-63 Homecoming was over---but not forgotten.

And Bonfire Highlight '62-63 Homecoming

The freshmen captured the first place trophy with this Japanese float. Donna Ligocki is pictured pulling the oshaw.

Having chosen Italy as their country, the seniors built this large float, representing a huge Venetian gondola.

The juniors won third place trophy for their float which portrayed the South Pacific Isles.

Cora Sue Dillbeck, a library assistant, checks the files to see if they have a book asked for by a student.

Students And Faculty

To help the school system run a little smoother and to give general aid to students and teachers are the jobs of responsible Calumet students who contribute time and effort toward student services.

Throughout the day students are found selling candy, ice cream, school supplies, basketball and football tickets.

Services are also given by library, lab, and gym assistants.

However small, the parts of these students may seem, they are essential to a smooth running and efficient school system.

Linda Goss, a cafeteria helper, busily dries silverware, one of the many jobs preformed by cafeteria personnel.

Performing one of her many duties as office helper, Kathy Van-eck, collects the absentee slips.

"How many tickets do you want?" asks, Carolyn Duke and Carolyn Lohman, as they sell tickets for the last football game of the year.

Benefit From Student Services At Calumet

Stopping just long enough to get a drink of water are three well dressed students: Mel Eichelberger, Judy McLean, and Marvin Jackson.

Many of the old fads from years past have found their way into the hallowed halls of Calumet once again. Some of the "oldies" include tennis shoes, trench coats, large purses, bows, short skirts, pointed toe shoes, ruffled blouses, eye shadow and eyeliner, short crew cuts, and ratted and poofed hair styles. Not to mention that ivy league look, continental styles with beltless, cuffless trousers, and angora covered rings.

Some fads making their debut this fall were wig hats, in various colors, and hot dog or stretch pants. There is an excessive show of three-fourth length coats, blouses that zip and button up the side, and multicolored sweat socks.

Many comments have been made about the fads in the past years but "That Wonderful Year 1963" has exceeded them all.

Wigs, Tennis Shoes, And Long Blouses

Wigs, all colors and sizes, can be seen at Calumet. Elaine Ellch and Angie Torcia are shown combing each others wigs before they go out into public.

These students always put their best foot forward when they wear the new stylish shoes.

Displaying their popular sweaters are Jolene Marsh, Sharnny Wedding, and Patti Sasser.

Highlight Fads At Calumet

Always dressed in top fashion are Donna Ligocki, Ron Fortner, Sherri Burke, and Bob Miller with ever popular trench and three quarter length coats, pointer shoes, and letterman's jacket.

Academics

Although each of us has different interests in school, we are all here for one basic purpose--to learn. Most students seldom stop to think that they may have learned something in the past year. After all, the average student spends a minimum of 198,000 minutes in academic classes during his high school career.

Calumet offers a variety of courses to help students prepare for the business world or for college. English, history, and math may be termed "dull" by students, but they are essentials in the modern world. For those students planning to go into business, courses such as bookkeeping, shorthand, and Business law are offered. Chemistry, foreign languages, geometry, and four years of English are "musts" for students planning on college.

Each of us should set high academic goals. In attaining these goals, we will often find much future success and satisfaction.

Language, Arts, And Music Departments Add

"Isn't this fun?", exclaims Shirley Sokol to Beverly Brown as they paint posters in art class.

Putting the newly arrived supplies away are art students: Roger Williams and Lloyd Gray.

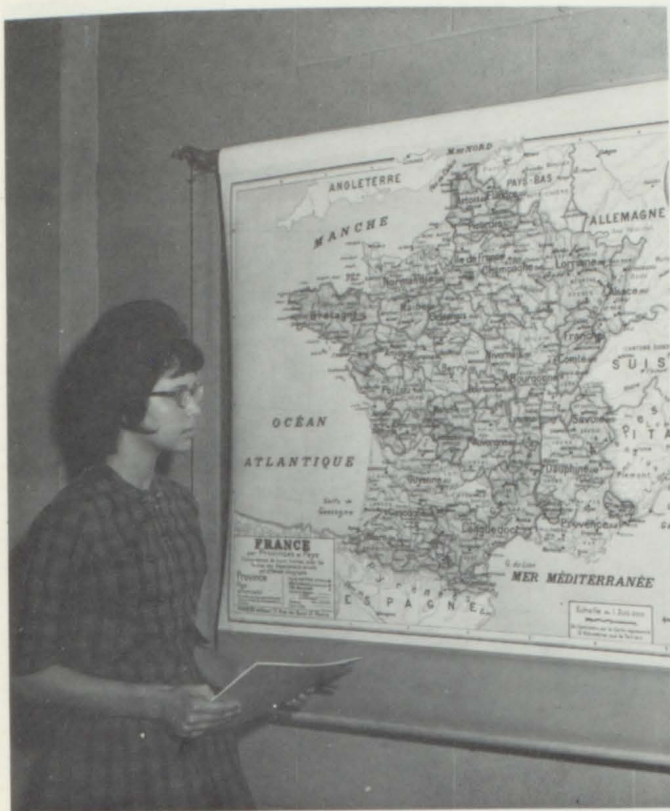

Music and art-perhaps the two most cultural subjects at Calumet-are two institutions in which Calumet students take much pride.

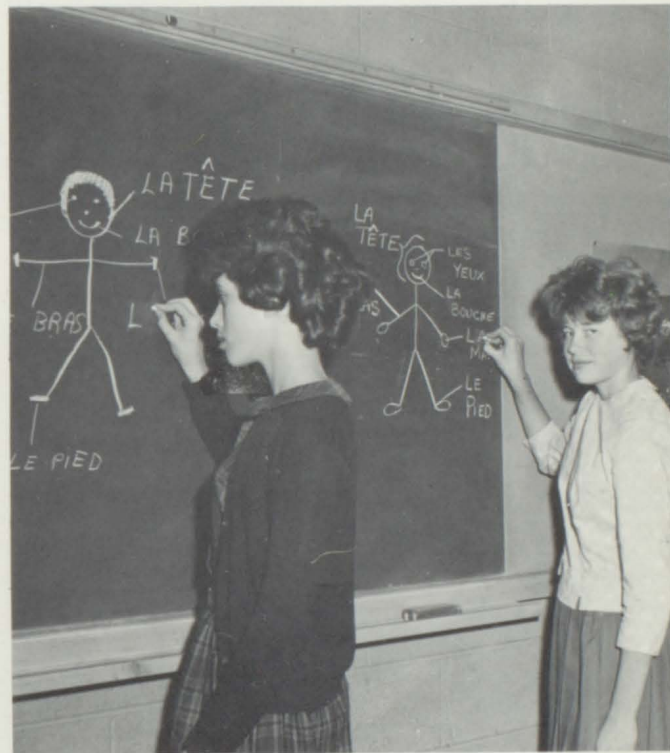

The many groups included in the music department are the A Cappella choir, girl's chorus, boy's chorus, and freshman chorus. Two concerts are given annually by the A Cappella and, in addition, they sing in hospitals and at area schools for Christmas. From the A Cappella a group called the Madrigals who sing primarily 16th century music are chosen.

The art department also tackles many projects during the school year including plans for Prom decorations. Students also learn to work in ink, to use a silk screen in stenciling, and various methods of bringing life to paintings and drawings.

Culture To Calumet

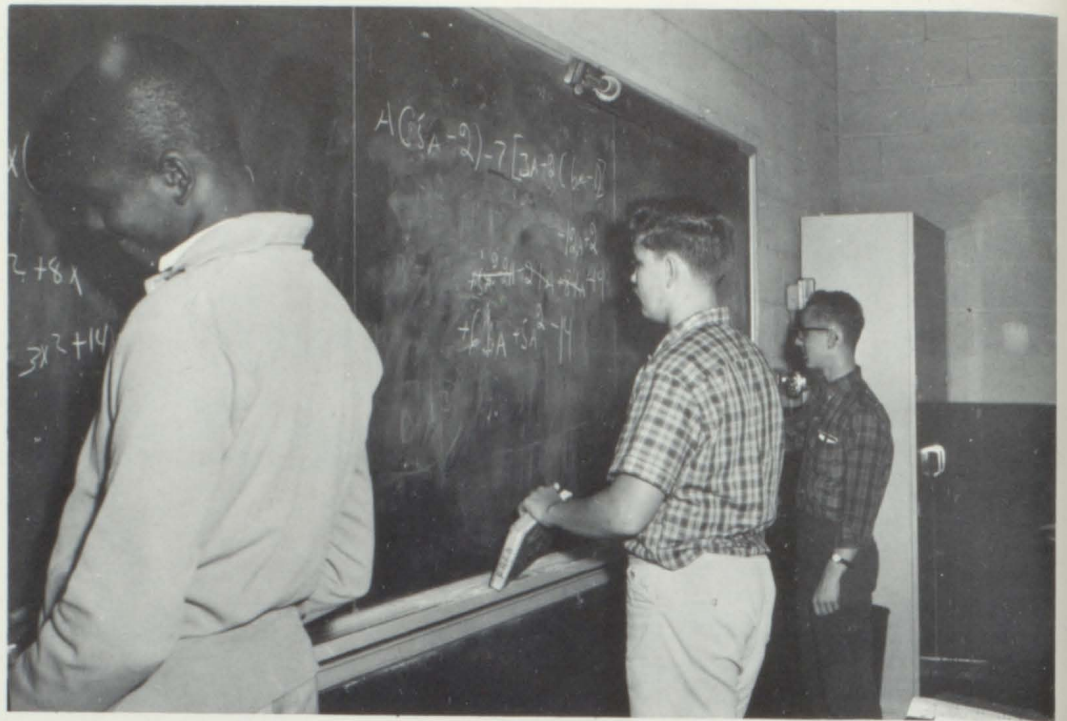

Elaine Cox compares the French map with the one that she was assigned to draw for her French notebook.

Drawing pictures and labeling them in French are Melody Hinkle and Teresa Bennett.

Studying their Latin assignment are Randy Stamper and Nancy Le Roy.

Mathematics Courses At Calumet Open New Gateways

"Oh these problems," exclaims algebra students: Clifton Hill, Ted Ward, and Bob Lewis, as they try to work them out on the board.

Richard Chandler looks on as Roxie Latham explains their algebra assignment to him.

The seven math courses at Calumet are designed to provide students with an adequate knowledge of mathematical operations and to prepare students for college.

General math or algebra is required for the freshmen. Advanced algebra exposes students to quadratic equations, radicals, and solving for two and three unknowns.

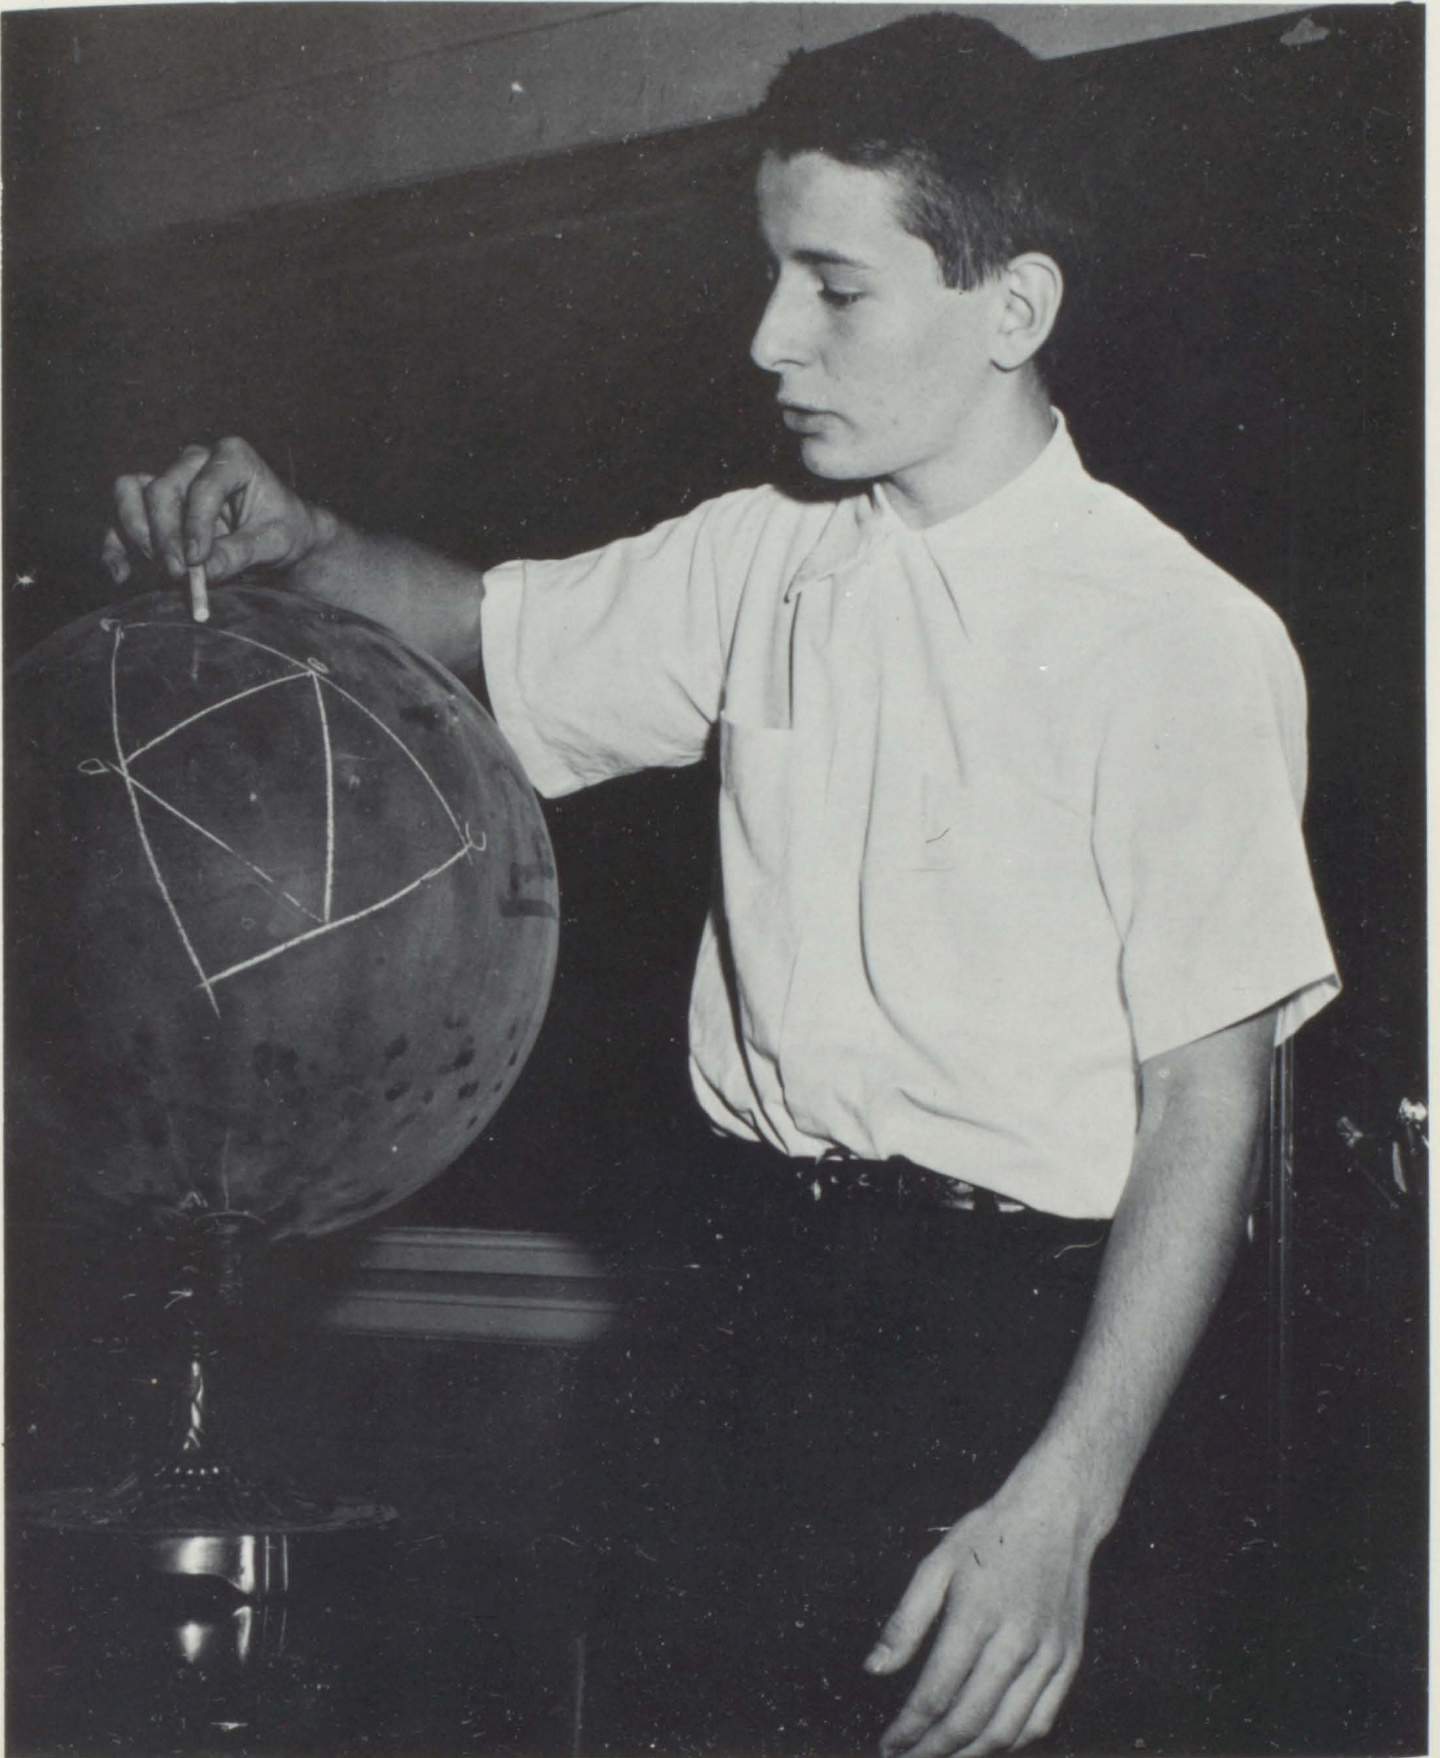

Geometry is the study of the basic reasoning concerned with two-dimensional figures. Business math includes a study of math functions which are used in the business world.

Trigonometry and solid geometry are one-semester courses offered to seniors. "Trig" problems are concerned with finding the size of angles, given the length of the three sides of a triangle, and other advanced math work. Solid geometry students work with three dimensional figures.

These courses provide math for college bound students as well as those not intending on college.

Into The Future

Clement Lessner explains the parts of a polar triangle to Mr. Kirk's solid geometry class.

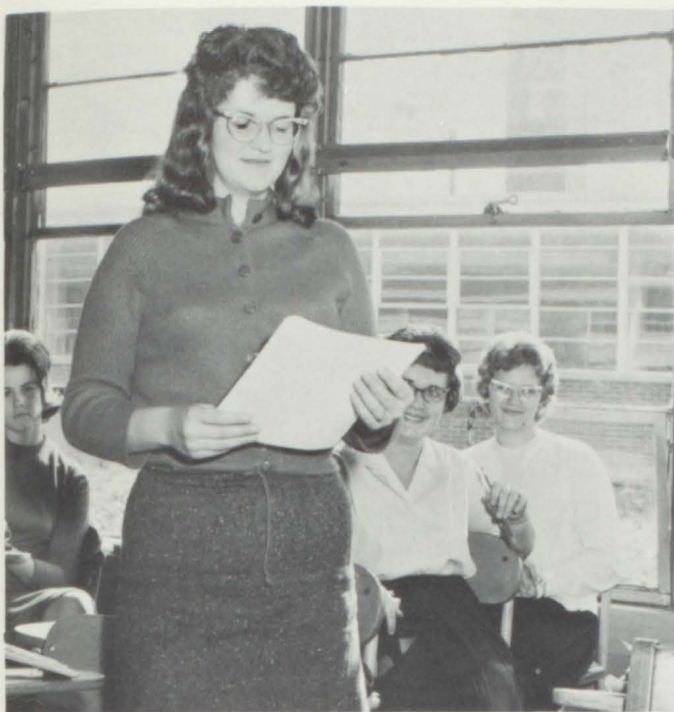

Listening attentively is Joy Honeycutt as fellow history student Chuck Wothke explains the map to her.

Calumet History Courses

Prepare Students To Be Better Citizens

Barbara Loomis' T.V. report seems to have aroused some humor in government class.

"Ah! I've found it. That's the book I want to give my government report on," exclaims Marcie Galvin.

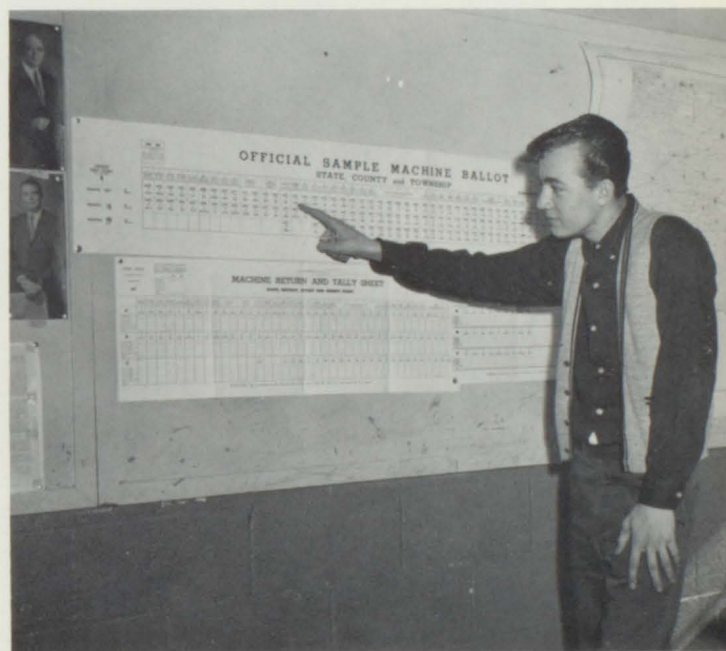

"When in the course of human events. . .", "We the people of the United States. . .", and "Four score and seven years ago. . .", are three quite familiar phrases to students of Calumet, for they are excerpts from the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution, and the Gettysburg Address, three momentous documents in the history of our nation.

The state of Indiana requires that each high school student take two years of history-United States history and government and economics. In addition Calumet offers world history, which is a study of civilization from the stone age to the modern space age.

U.S. history outlines the discovery and development of the United States. It also introduces the names of the founding fathers and lists the important records which played roles in establishing the ideals of democracy.

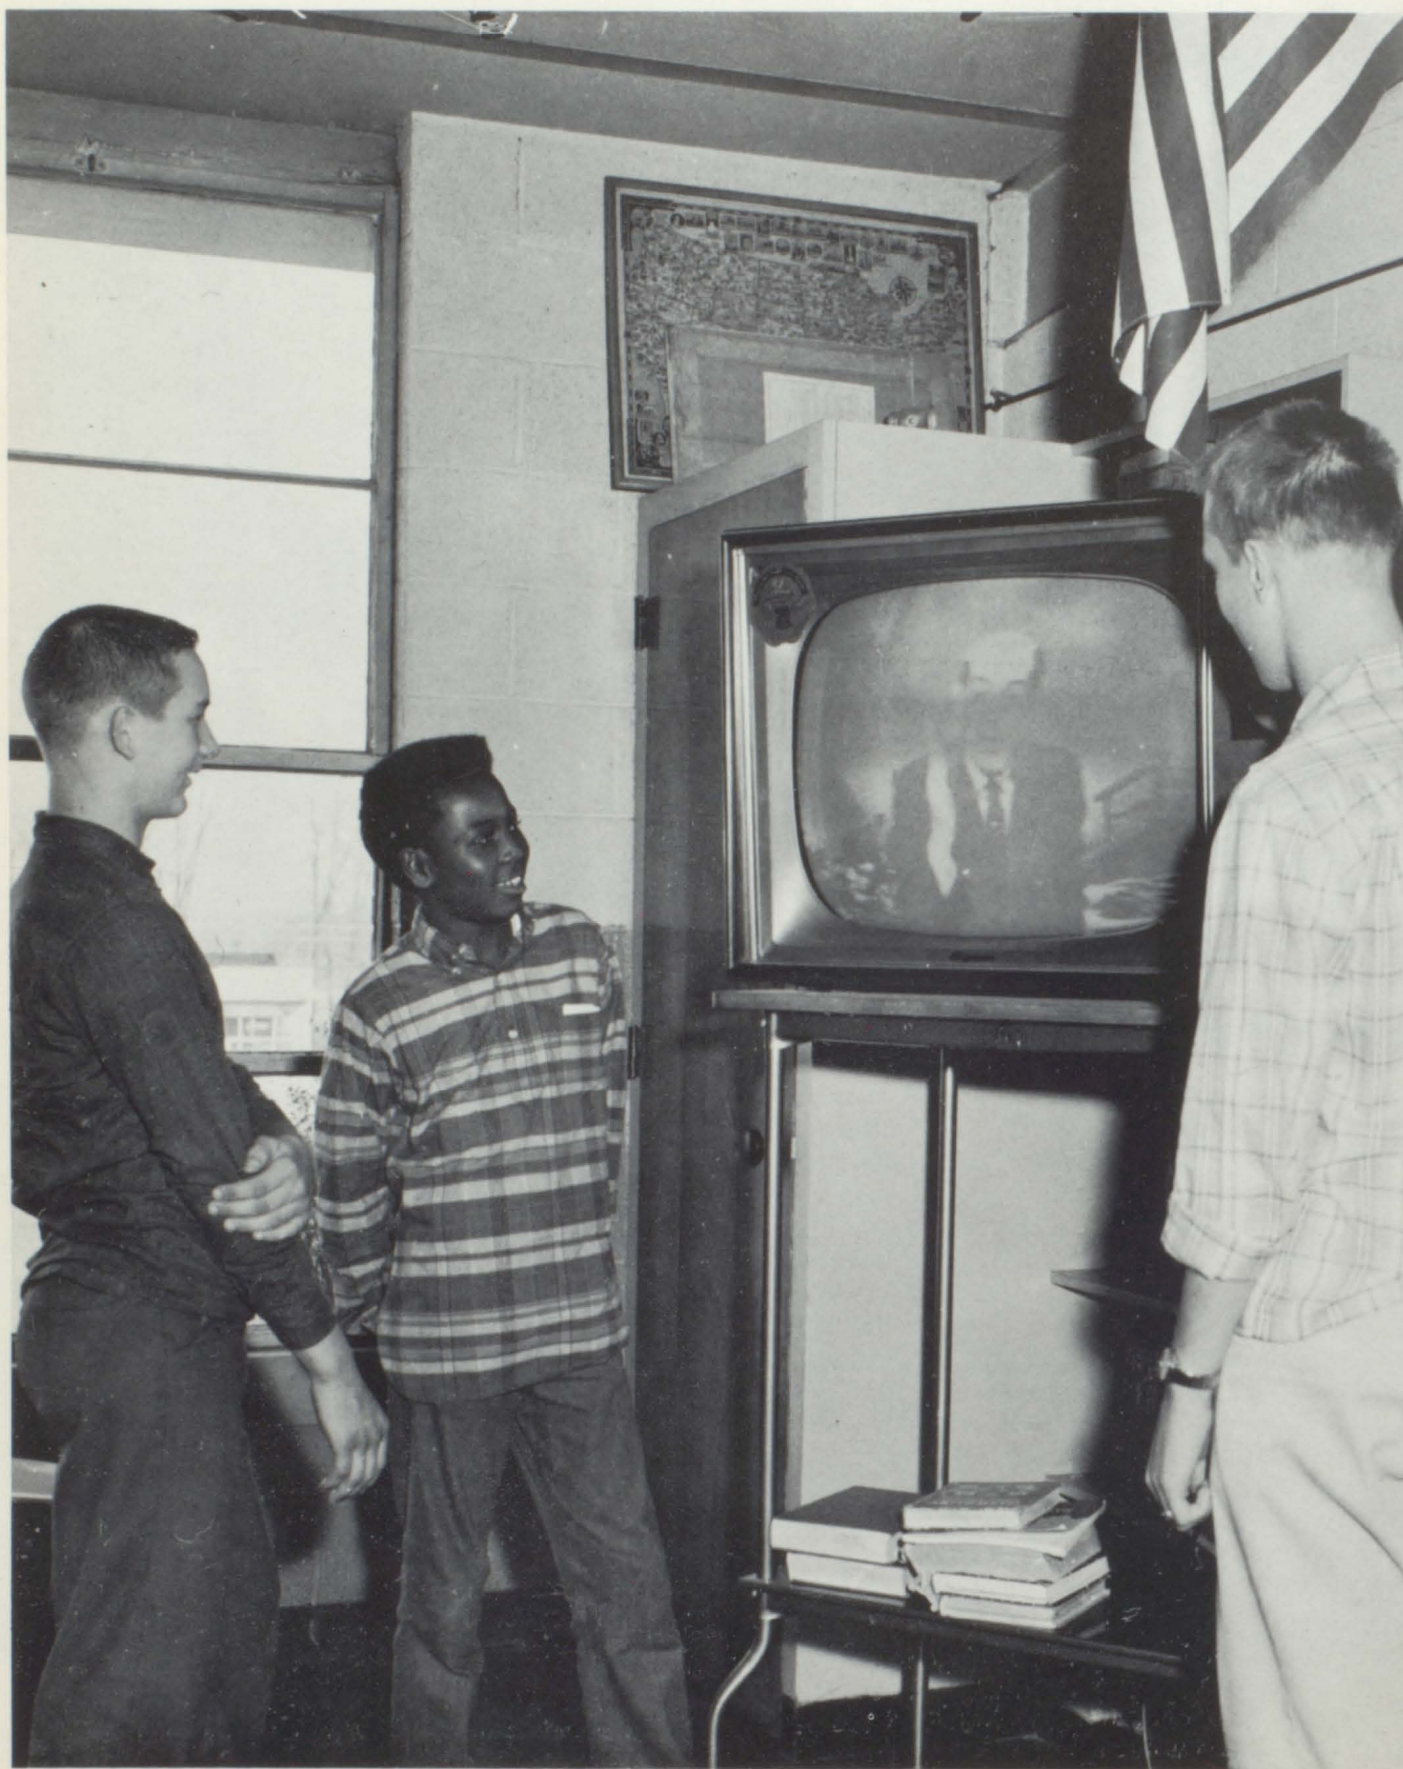

One semester of government concerned with the fundamental principles and structure of our government, and one semester of economics, concerned with the American system of production are required for seniors.

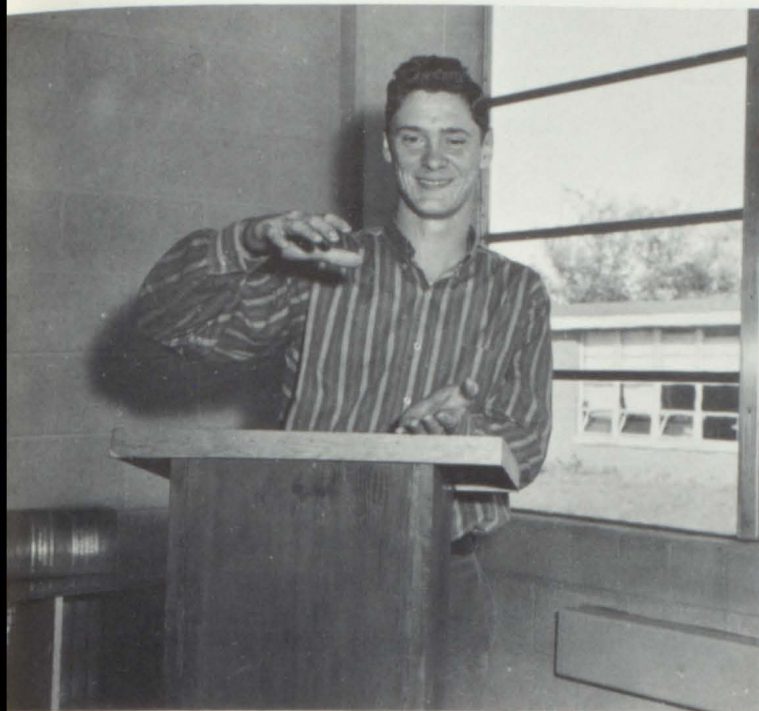

Don Christoff, senior, explains the sample voting machine Ballot to his government class.

Admiring one of the new educational televisions at Calumet are Jim Chancellor, Bob Davis, and Jim Crosslin.

As English Becomes Universal,

We Must Learn It's Correct Usage

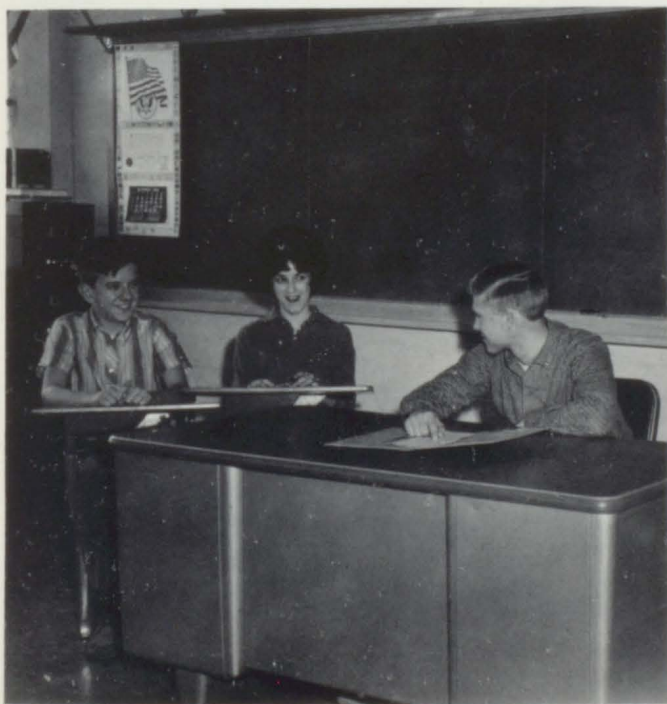

Giving his seemingly humorous book report in Mr. Day's English class is Morris Nies.

English 12 doesn't exclude seniors from oral book reports as Mike McBride, senior, shows us.

Speech class isn't all speeches. A general discussion is in session at the moment with Keith Bennett, Sandy Kristoff, and Wayne Vandermeer.

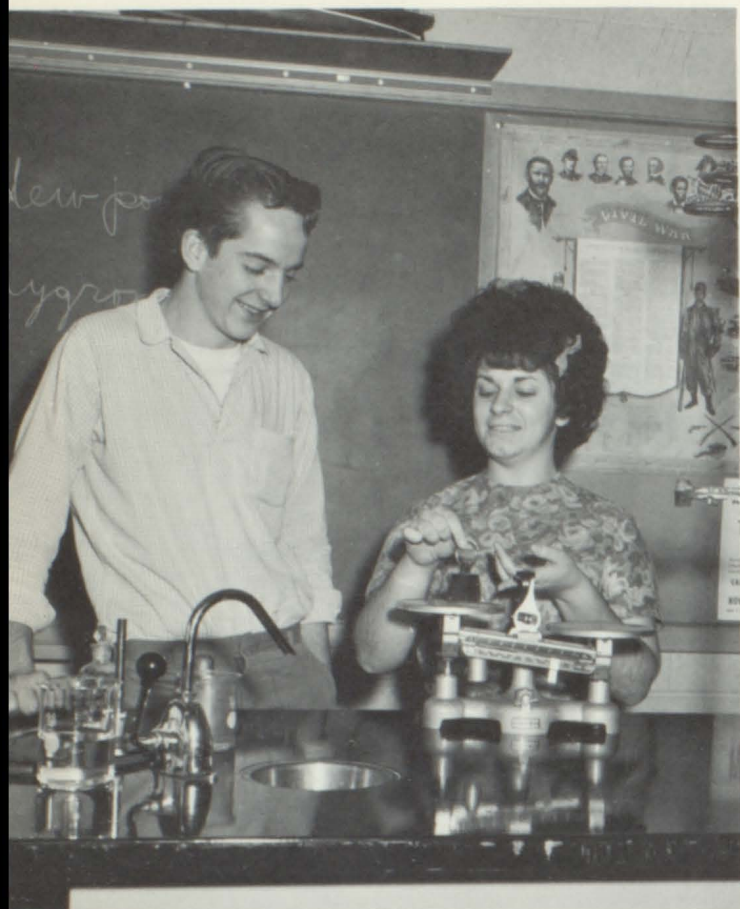

Math, history, and business courses are not the only things needed in today's modern world. A practical knowledge of English is also necessary to express oneself clearly.

First year English includes a study of the parts of speech, and a review of grammar rules. Literature students read a variety of stories, plays, and poetry.

Sophomore english classes study the works of Shakespeare and other classics, while emphasis is placed on American authors and their works in junior english.

A fourth year of English, which offers composition and theme work, is required for those students planning on college.

This year a one semester course in composition is being offered to seniors. It includes a vocabulary study and composition work.

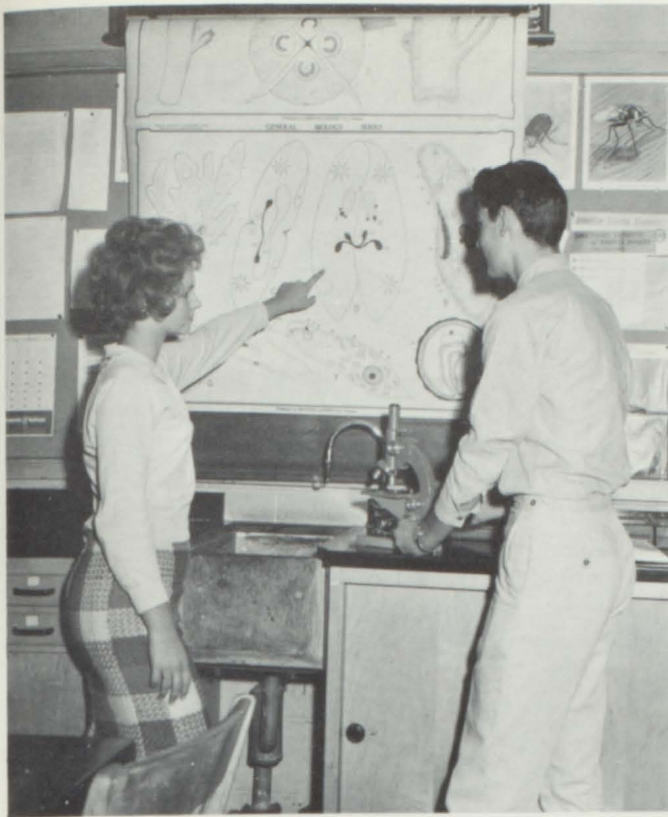

Diane Zurawick, an advanced chemistry student, studies one of many problems on the new analytical balance.

Darlene Greer and Wayne Loveless seem to enjoy their assignment in general science of weighing.

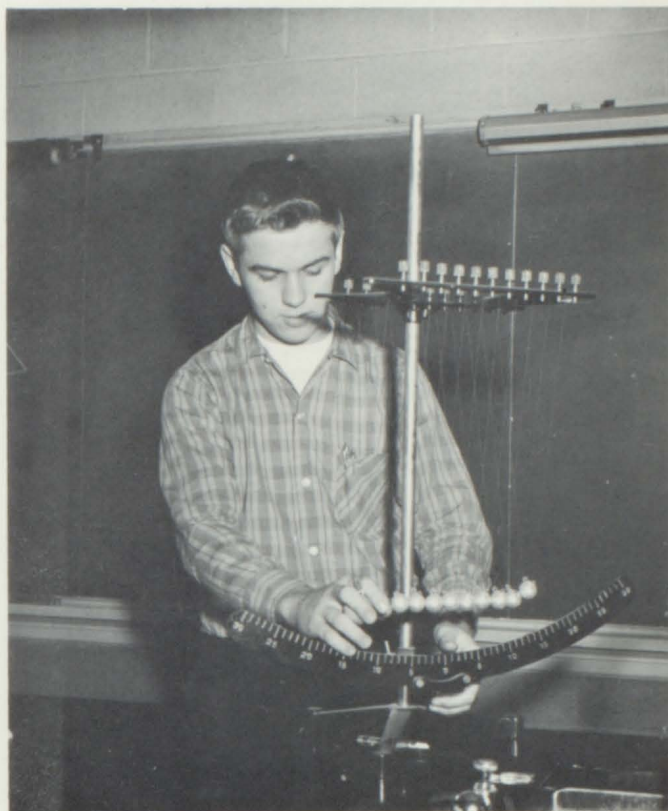

Barbara Flint, Jackie McLean, and Linda Yeager, chemistry technicians, perform a demonstration in Mr. Richards fifth hour class.

Students Find Science

Sandy Hammonds points to a chart in biology class as John Coffman meditates on it before looking into the microscope.

Roy Lee, physics student, explains the principle of the momentum apparatus to the class.

Dale Lowry, Kaye Stansberry, and John Wagner, lab assistants to Mr. Cole's Biology classes; are performing one of their many duties, changing water in the aquarium.

To many students enrolled at Calumet, their future occupation shall be in the field of science. These students will not have to worry about the training of their abilities, for our curriculum is very large, ranging from general science to college chemistry.

The student starts with general science, which deals with the basic form of science, or biology, a study of plants and animals. Chemistry is next, it is the study of the basic compounds of organic and inorganic substances. Physics is the study of matter and energy.

Many of the science classes got new equipment this year. This, along with the teaching, prepares the students of today for tomorrow's field of science.

Facilities More Than Adequate This Year

Students In Vocational Classes

There are vocational courses offered at Calumet for those students who intend on this type of career.

The boys at Calumet receive training in the different shop classes to prepare them for their future life's work.

Mechanical drawing, one of the shop courses, acquaints the students with the language of the industry and the art of drafting an image of what will be the outcome of their skill.

After accumulating this knowledge, they may then enroll in either the metal or wood shops.

For the girls there is cooking, sewing, home planning, and home nursing classes offered.

These courses are a type of preparatory training for the girls as future homemakers.

Peggy Taylor, LaDonna Frye, and Pamela Davies proudly display the peach shortcakes that they had made in cooking class.

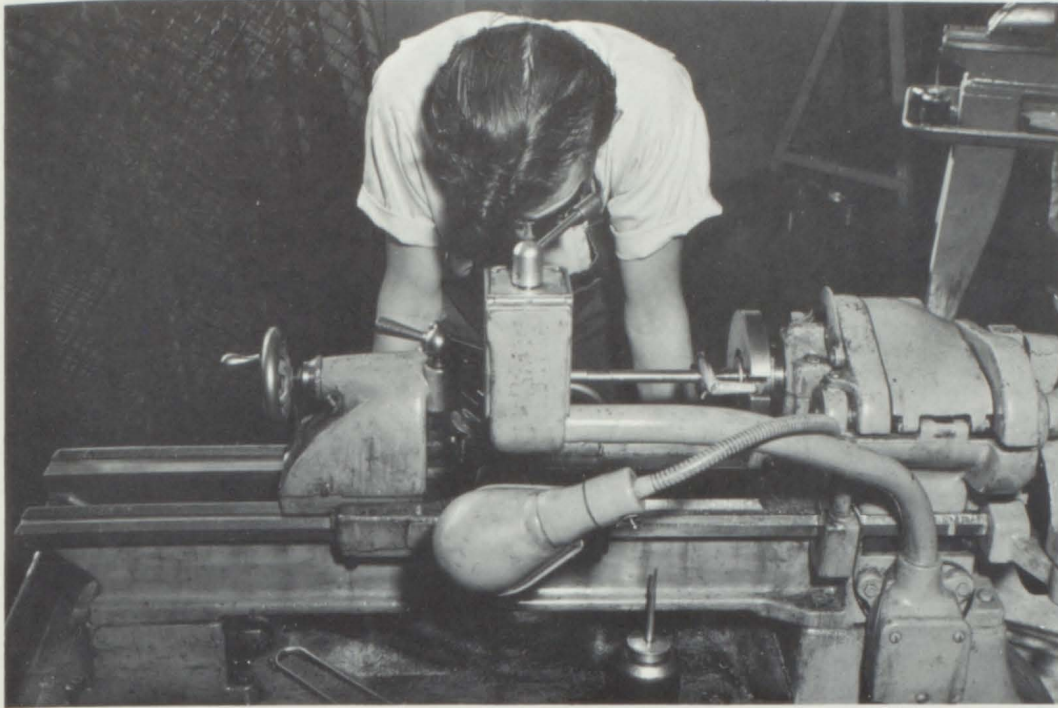

Rhonda Dalton and Mary Anderson, sewing students, take time out from removing their "tote drawers" to glance up at the photographer.

With stern determination Pat Cudzoil succeeds in threading the needle in her sewing machine and is ready to make her skirt.

Obtain Practice For Life's Work

James Beehn, metal shop student, works laboriously and efficiently to cut down a piece of metal on a lathe in metal shop.

Glendle Drake helps Joe Cooper trim a board on the planer in wood shop class.

Doris Ohm dictates a letter as Lynne Granger takes it down in shorthand. This is one of the many exercises performed by the students to gain speed and control.

Back straight, feet flat on floor, and eyes on copy, Eugene Robinson is a picture of perfection as he types an exercise in typing class.

For those students not planning on college, Calumet offers a variety of commercial courses which will prepare students for the business world.

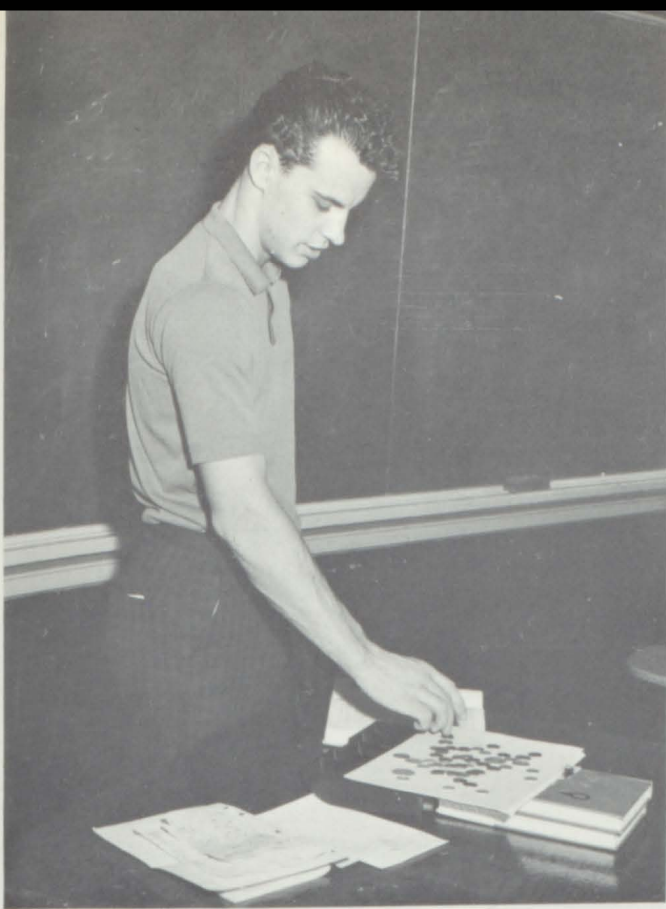

Salesmanship and retailing place emphasis on sales talks, store organization, business file, and sales promotion. Business arithmetic applies basic mathematical skills to the problems of everyday business.

Becoming informed on important business procedures, is an important part of both general business and business law.

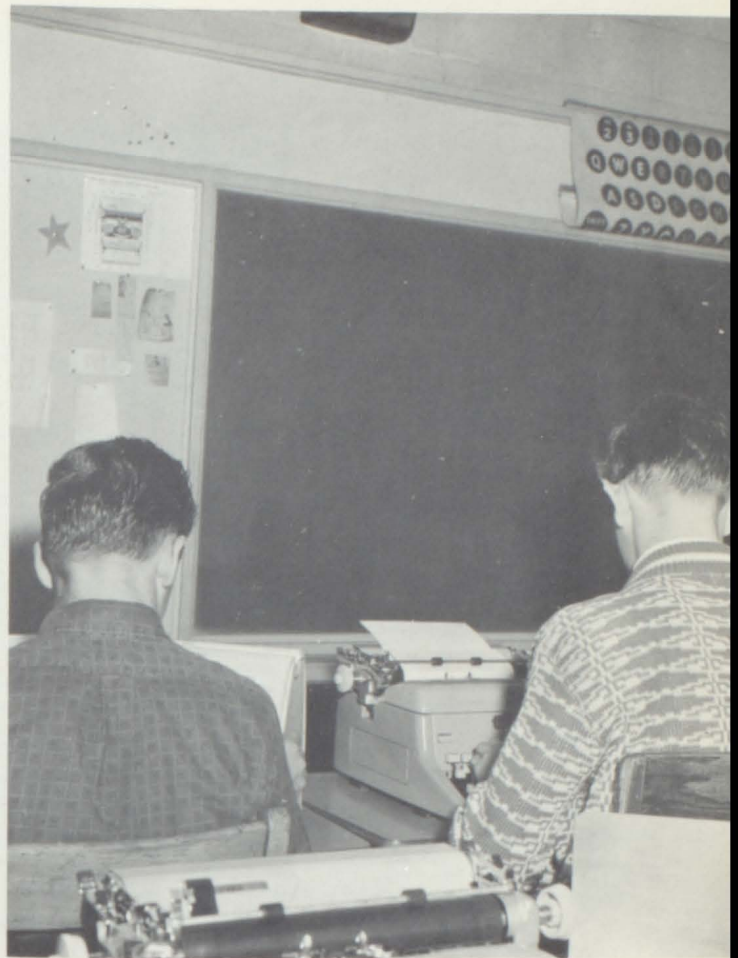

Bookkeeping teaches neat and accurate filing of records. Secretarial training, two years of typing, and two years of shorthand will enable girls to take on secretarial or stenographic jobs.

These commercial courses play important roles in preparing students for their future vocations in the modern business world.

Commercial Courses Prepare Students

Bill Woods, salesmanship student, explains in a demonstration to the class the correct way of putting money in a cash drawer.

"Now you will have one minute to type thirty words," says Mr. Yacko, but he hasn't caught students Joe Peters and Lynn Meyers sleeping.

The assignments in business math are studied diligently by students Ravel Watkins, Ben Brown, Joanne Loy, Steve Horton, and Gerry Alexander.

For Modern Business World

The Importance Of Physical

"A sound mind and sound body," an old Greek proverb, is as applicable to today's society as it was to Greek and Roman civilizations. So important has physical fitness become, that it has been stressed by President Kennedy and is required in the curriculum of all high schools.

Its purpose is to provide the daily exercise necessary and to offer a "break" from academic subjects.

The girls' gym classes engage in various intramural games, tumble, and participate in other events.

Boys' gym classes include basketball, baseball, and preparation for the freshman decathlon.

Good sportsmanship and fair-play are stressed in both groups.

Andrea Seaburger seems quite fascinated as she studies the hand of a skeleton in Mr. Joseph's Health and Safety class

The heart, a very small but lifegiving organ, is explained to Linda Anserello by John Stock.

Fitness Is Stressed Daily At C.H.S.

Arms out, stand up straight, and feet apart. The boys in gym class really get a daily work out.

"Oh, I hit it," yells an enthusiastic ball player as she bats the ball in gym class.

One of Mr. Bjelich's gym classes play their own version of kick the ball, the hard way.

Organizations

Supplementing an already active agenda at Calumet are the many clubs that give students a chance to develop special talents or interests as in the case of the Chemistry Club, F.T.A., and Secretarial Club; to develop character in clubs such as, the National Honor Societies; or to provide a profitable service for the school as Student Council or Pep Club members often do.

Many organizations offer scholarships at the end of the year, take trips, or engage in other worth-while activities.

Calumet clubs play an important role in high school life and give valuable services to the school as well.

F.H.A., Homemaking Work Together

Many goals are set up by the Future Homemakers of America, which is a nationally affiliated organization of girls interested in the home economics world. Some of the goals of the club are: preparing young girls to be efficient homemakers, learning to help others, to further interest in the field of home economics, and to contribute to the betterment of the student body.

Since financial support is needed to acquire such goals, the girls sponsor taffy apple sales during both lunch hours, as well as other money making projects.

Christmas baskets consisting of: necessary food, clothing, and toys were given to needy families to make the season more enjoyable. Many students outside the club also pitched in on the project.

The work is not always finished by the end of a school day so many times the girls stay after school for get-togethers--and work!

The officers of the F.H.A. Club are: Cheryl Fields, Josephine Curley, Dorothy Minder, Sharon Sellers, secretary, Christine Nimetz, vice-president, Rosie Fankhouser, president, Donna Strayer, Sherra Wilt, treasurer, Sandy Christoff, and LaDonna Frye.

Rayette Ashby reads the poster about the F.H.A. Bake sale on the bulletin board at school

To Further Good Will At C.H.S.

In this fast moving age of ours, the emphasis is placed on science, but who can imagine a future without homemakers?

Calumet's Homemaking Club is a training ground for the young women who will be the homemakers of tomorrow.

The Homemakers had many varied activities this year beginning with their initiation and ending with their annual spring luncheon, where they honor the graduating seniors. During the school year they sold taffy apples and had other money-making projects to finance their Christmas cheer baskets to needy families in the area and their annual trip. In the past, they have visited the Museum of Science and Industry in Chicago.

Officers of the Homemaking Club, Jahlana Fulton, president; Doris Ohm, vice-president; Shirley Sokol, historian; and Betty Summar, treasurer, put into practice the various skills they have learned.

Various members of the Homemaking Club work diligently on the Christmas Cheer baskets that they gave to needy families in the area.

G.A.A. And Varsity Club Promotes

Student Interest In Athletics

G.A.A. and Varsity Club are two Calumet clubs whose purposes are to organize and promote a sport's program for students.

During a regular school week, a G.A.A. member might engage in any sport from bowling and football, to ice skating and volleyball in the winter. Weekly meetings are held, and letters, chevrons, and other awards are given on a point basis. Activities sponsored by the G.A.A. include decoration of a Christmas tree by the senior members, an annual fall picnic at Marquette Park, a coat check at each home basketball game, and the G.A.A. Ball in December. This year's Ball was held December 1, in the cafeteria. The theme was the "Candy Cane Ball," and the music was provided by the Calumet High School Dance Band.

The chief aim of the Varsity Club is to earn money. It is used to purchase lettermen's jackets for those senior boys who earn three major letters in one sport. Activities include, the sale of programs at basketball games and sponsoring an annual car wash. Earning a major letter in one sport is required for membership. In recognition of the outstanding contribution of the lettermen to Calumet, season passes to all home basketball games are issued by the Athletic Department.

These students, Jo Ann Loy, George Remington, and Karen Bjorklund, are proudly showing off their Calumet sweat shirts which they bought from the Varsity Club.

Varsity Club officers: Elijah Ford, secretary; Bob Miller, treasurer; Cookie Bewick, president; and Jim Jones, vice-president; outline money making projects for purchase of varsity jackets.

The Calumet Players Continue Support

The cast of "A House On The Cliff", Marvin Vanderwater, Martha Kruk, Marie Sankowski, Jackie McLean, Carolyn Lohman, and Chuck Jones are shown here in the hectic final week of practice.

Of Young Viet-Nameese Boy

In the last hurried moments before the curtains open, Martha Kruk, Jackie McLean, and Carolyn Lohman are being made up by Jo Orban, Nancy Haussman, and Pat Ross.

Calumet Player officers: Margaret Johnson, secretary-treasurer; and Christine Nimetz, vice-president; consider a play for production, while Marvin Vanderwater, president, puts up an interesting display.

George Remington and Randy Stamper put the finishing touches on the scenery from "House On A Cliff", the Players first play of the year.

Starting off the 1962-63 season, Calumet's Thespians present "House On A Cliff", a mystery comedy in three acts by George Batson. Most of the cast began learning upstage from downstage and continued through with correct pronunciation and clear enunciation of words.

"An Inspector Calls", a straight drama by J. B. Priestley, was different from the first play, not just because of its serious and dramatic story line, but also because it was in the round.

The annual Drama Festival is to be held in the Jr. High. It was said that the "Mellerdrammer," which is providing for the support of the Vietnamese child the Players became foster parents to last spring, if good enough would be presented at that time.

Without the co-operation of the various crews, any attempts at a performance would be futile. It is through these crews and the assistant director that the lights go on and the curtains go up

Heads of the Junior Honor Society, Diane Kruse, secretary; Chuck Peterson, reporter; and Barbara Cooley, vice-president; are at a monthly meeting. Not pictured is Ken Metz, president.

One of the most outstanding service organizations open to the sophomores and freshmen, after the first semester, is the Jr. Honor Society. The Jr. Honor Society, because it has charge of the candy room during lunch hours, is one of the more profitable clubs at Calumet. Each year, along with the Senior Honor Society, it presents a $100 scholarship to a deserving senior.

Among its other activities is an annual trip or outing. In the past they have gone to see "Ben Hur" in Chicago and in the spring of 1962 they proposed a picnic outing at the Dunes State Park.

Besides an "A" or "B" average, the other qualifications for membership in this organization are service, leadership, and character.

The club, formally called the Ora C. Strycker Chapter of the National Jr. Honor Society, was created with such useful purposes in mind as building and developing character, creating another service organization, promoting enthusiasm for scholarships, and encouraging more leadership.

Oh well, time for another hour's work. These girls, Mary Ann Persley, Kathy Olsen, and Charlotte Hodge, members of the Jr. Honor Society, are in charge of the candy store, a very profitable activity.

Honor Societies Promote

To further scholarship and leadership and to promote such qualities as character, leadership, and an interest in service, are the aims of Calumet's chapter of the Senior Honor Society.

The Senior Honor Society, now in its twelfth year as a Calumet club, was organized for those interested in just such aims. Membership is limited to those juniors and seniors maintaining an "A" or "B" average. These candidates' names are then submitted to a faculty council who judges them on the afore mentioned qualities. Those who maintain scholastic averages through the first semester become full-fledged members at the annual induction services held in March.

This year members sold light bulbs which provided the funds necessary for giving a $100 scholarship to a worthy senior.

To provide funds for a scholarship, Honor Society members sold light bulbs. Here Roy Lee and Sandy Koedyker open a box of bulbs to distribute to the members.

Senior Honor Society officers are: Mike McBride, president; Ron Sellburg, treasurer; Sandy Koedyker, secretary; Mary Green, reporter; and Roy Lee, vice-president. They set examples of character and leadership for the rest of the school.

Leadership And Character At Calumet

Mike Staesnick considers himself unworthy to gaze on such works of art. He and the other F.T.A. members are studying art students' work on a trip they took to the Gary I.U. extension.

F.T.A And Chemistry Club

Unlike most organizations at Calumet High School, the Future Teachers of America does not have an initiation. Membership in this club is opened to sophomores and upperclassmen who have some interest in the field of teaching.

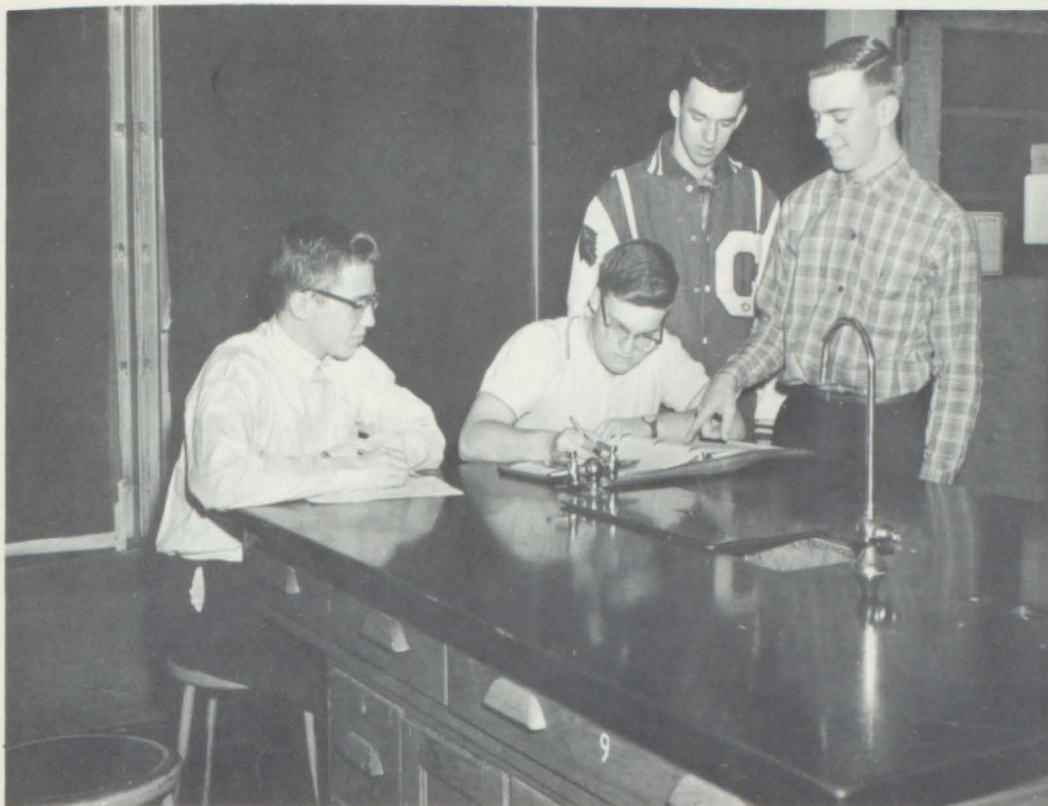

During the course of the school year this club sponsors many activities designed to further interests in the teaching field. The club invites guest speakers, such as the Guidance Counselor, to talk on a profession of interest. During this time they have movies on the various colleges and fields of teaching. To promote interest in this vocation and to create enthusiasm for the occupation, this organization planned a trip to Indiana University in April of 1963.

The recreational activities for this year included a picnic, an annual outing to the Dunes State Park, and a bowling party at the Tri-City Plaza Lanes.

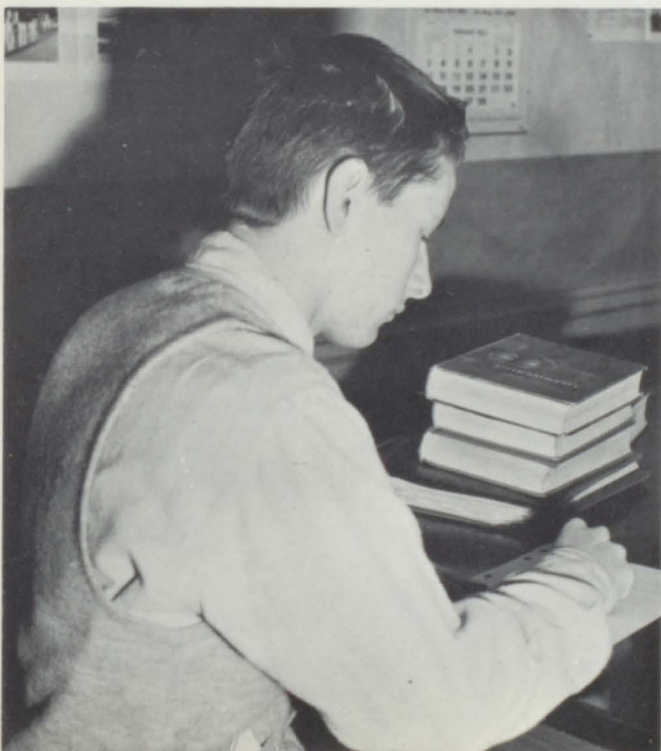

Checking off the names of the members who signed up for F. T. A.'s bowling party are the club's officers: Linda Wertz, treasurer; Marie Richards, secretary; Carolyn Patterson, president; and Jesse Cook, vice-president.

Promote Student Interest At C.H.S.

Chemistry Club officers, John LeGrand, treasurer; Randy Sanders, vice-president; Mike McBride, secretary; and Ron Sellburg, president; review notes before a meeting.

Everything seems to check out as Clement Lessner looks over his field trip permission slip from his parents before handing it in.

For those students interested in chemistry and other fields of science, Calumet has established an organization known as the Chemistry Club. Its aims are promoting a greater interest in chemistry and demonstrating various progresses of industry.

Monthly meetings of the Chemistry Club include a variety of movies, demonstrations, and occasional guest speakers. These three factors help keep chemistry students up to date about the ever-changing world of science.

Dues paid by club members go toward the financing of an annual trip to one of the large industries. In past years the club has toured Standard Oil.

Music Club And Sunshine

Music, the universal language. It tends to break all barriers, large or small, mount all blockades, no matter how tall, and soothe all conflicts, no matter how unsurmountable. Music, the only safe way for all men to express their emotions.

The Music Club of Calumet High School, led by Andy Williams, president, promotes an interest in all types of music, ranging from classical to modern jazz. At the conclusion of each recording, the organization discusses at length, what the composer had in mind at the time the piece was written.

The club is unique in the fact that many people don't stop to consider or try to understand the meaning or thought behind such music. It is even more amazing that these thoughts or impressions one gets when he hears a certain melody are hardly ever brought into the open and shared with others. This way music might begin to have a deeper meaning to more people, that is, if they try to visualize what it means to others.

The music is chosen by the president of the club, who tries primarily for variety.

Andy Williams, president of C.H.S.'s Music Club, pauses to warm-up the record player before playing one of the many fine selections heard at every club meeting.

Officers of Fine Arts Club: Sherra Wilt, vice-president; Sharon Sellers, reporter; Nancy Hill, treasurer; Sandy Christoff, president, and Rosie Fankhauser, secretary, look over play catalogues and new albums for ideas for future activities.

Society Work Toward Goals During '62-63

Among the many generous clubs at C.H.S., the Sunshine Society is probably the most generous. The S.S.S. is chiefly concerned with helping people other than those in their own club. They have a president and a vice-president and carry on meetings as the other clubs do, but they also discuss what can be done for the less fortunate.

This year, as in the years past, the S.S.S. girls sold candy to help the children at Reilly Hospital. They again made their traditional Christmas cheer basket for the children and their parents. These baskets contained toys, clothing, and food.

In addition, each year the Sunshine Society offers a $400 scholarship for a senior girl planning to enter the field of nursing.

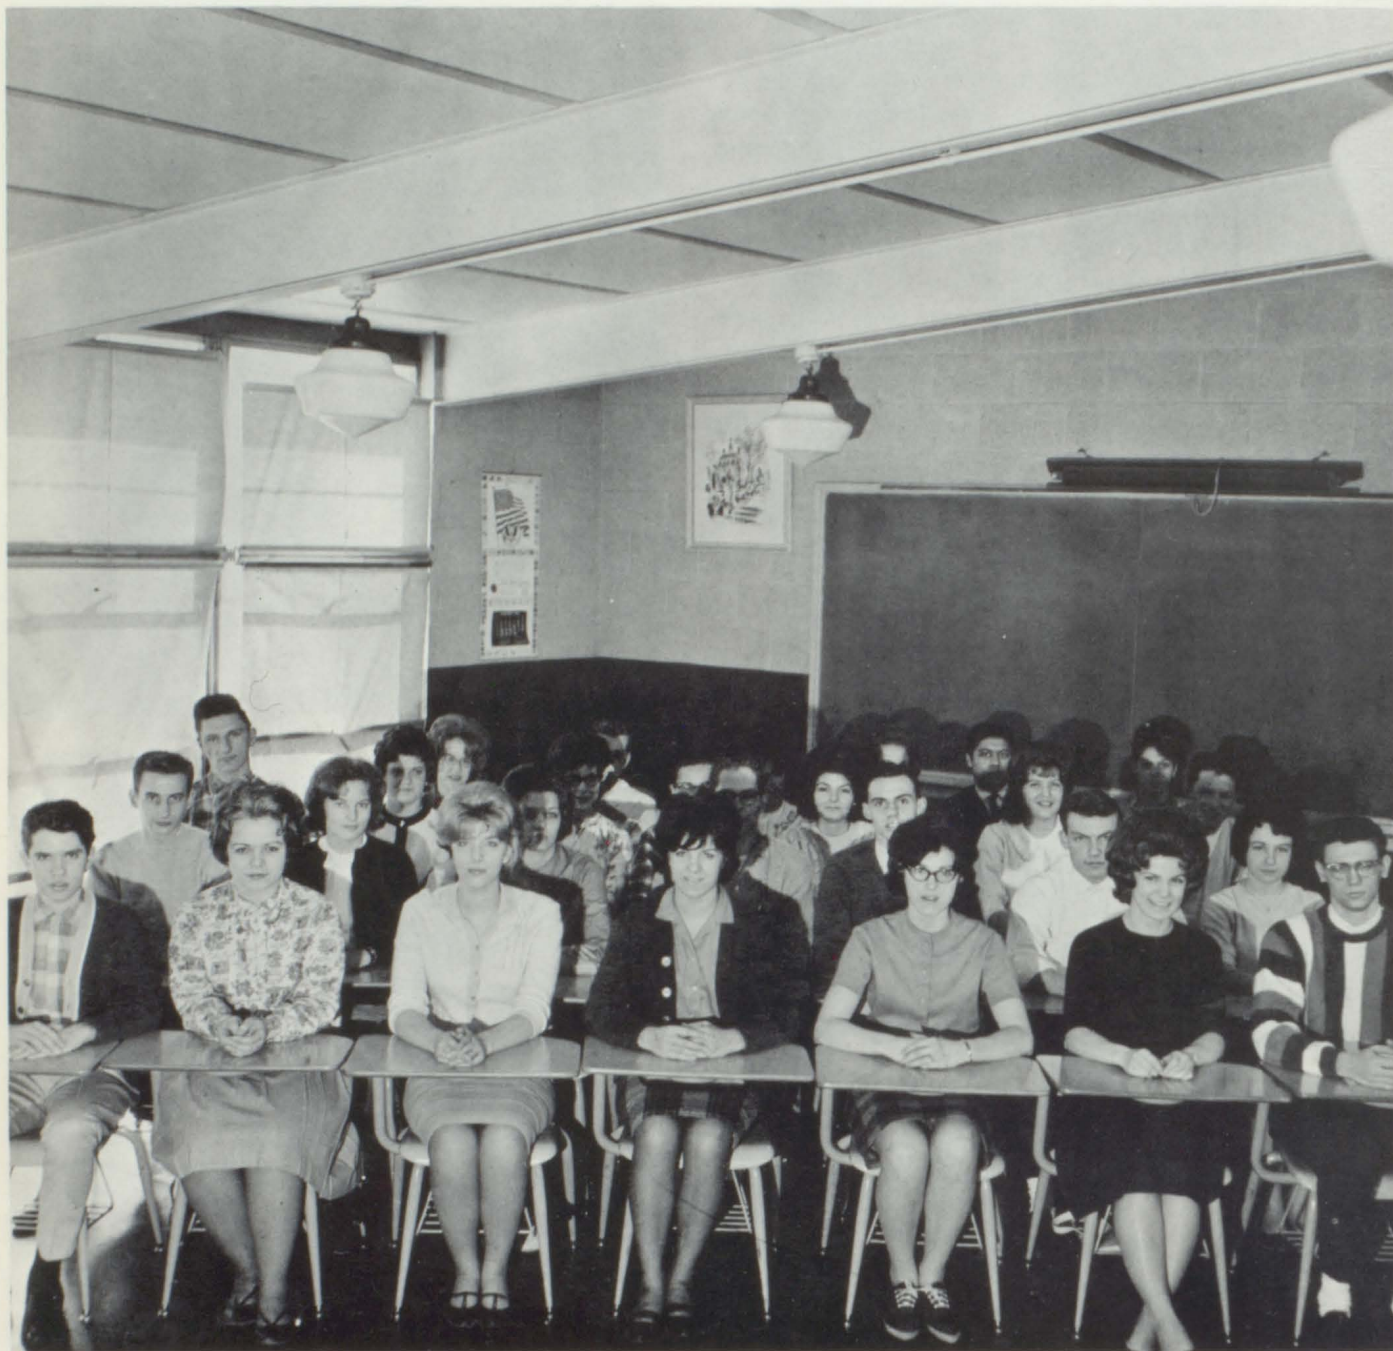

"How's your cake coming along," asks Carolyn Lohman to Betty Summar. Both are preparing for the Sunshine Society's bake sale.

Officers of the Sunshine Society: Dotty Cable, recording secretary; Patty Hammonds, president; Sharon Layman, vice-president; Shirley Sokol, corresponding secretary; are checking the minutes for the meeting. Not pictured is Noreen Swank, treasurer.

Student Council Serves Many Useful

Purposes To Student Body

Heading the list of Calumet clubs is the Student Council, an organization concerned with student government. To become a member of this club is both an honor and privilege, for students cannot join but must be elected by their classmates. In addition, all presidents of classes and clubs are invited to join.

Among the responsibilities of the council members are the juke box in the gym, assemblies, the polio drive, school spirit, and elections. Council members take care of the operation and maintenance of the juke box during the noon hour, and also supply it with popular records. Assemblies which boost school spirit are under the jurisdiction of Student Council too. The polio drive held in late January was supported and organized by the Student Council. Council members see that elections are taken care of and that ballots are tallied. If this were not enough responsibility, members also take on the job of boosting school spirit within the student body.

Much of the smooth operation of extra curricular activities are made possible through the efforts of hard-working, determined Student Council members.

Livvy Kilbourn and Danny Michael, student council members, read the rules and regulations of conduct that a cheering block should maintain.

Pausing a moment from their busy job of representing the student body are the Student Council officers: Randy Sanders, parliamentarian; Roger Book, vice-president; Cookie Bewick, president; Jo Orban, secretary; and Sandy Keistoff, treasurer.

Language Clubs And Y. F. C.

Y.F.C. is the one club at Calumet High School that is carrying on the more important job than any other group. Think carefully what the letters themselves stand for. Y-stands for youth, those who will control the world of tomorrow. F-stands for word For- meaning, in this case, with, beside, supporters of. Finally one of the greatest words the world has ever known, a word meaning peace, when life has no other, strength, when all is lost, drained from the body by the trials and tribulations of life and love--something so lacking in the modern world --the final C stands for Christ.

This organization has activities and speakers in helping them do their job for Him. This group also attends rallies and participates in Bible quiz programs.

Officers of Y.F.C.: Sherry VanVleck, publicity chairman; Rosemary Davidson, treasurer; Diane Kruse, program chairman; read aloud a passage from the Bible. Not pictured is Joyce Hickel, president.

Perform Many Worth-While Activities

Sodilitas Porrorum Caesaris, Pan Am, Le Cerce Francais, this may look like a sentence taken from an ancient Greek book, but it isn't, it's the Latin club, Spanish club, and the French club, in that order.

Sodilitas Porvorum is a club designed to help Latin students become better acquainted with Latin American culture, the club puts on "skits", has bowling parties, bake sales, and paper drives.

Pan Am or the Spanish club, tries to develop interest in the Spanish speaking countries. This way the members learn the customs, culture, and ideas of these countries, besides the language. The club usually has a Spanish party, and takes at least one field trip to Chicago.

LeCerce Francais, better known as the French club encourages interest in the French speaking countries to learn their customs and something of their life. To get away from this steady grind, however, they sell stationary and other things to sponsor a trip to Chicago. They visit the museums and the art institute to study French culture.

French Club officers, Judy Carpenter, secretary; Laurann Castle, president; and Richard Dunlap, treasurer; are studying their French book intently.

Latin Club President Ricky Mantz must have found a lively statement in the book of the "dead language" from the smiles on Jerry Poortinga's, vice-president, Jo Orban's secretary, and Shirley Woodrow's, treasurer, faces.

These Latin Club members seem to be enjoying themselves at this party held after a bowling party.

Bob Nanny, president of Audio Visual, checks a roll of film as Larry Lockhart, vice-president, and Dianna Jelenek, secretary, look on.

Tabs, Audio Visual, And

Audio Visual Club is one club where everyone shares the responsibilities. The members take turns showing films, setting up equipment, and cleaning it. The Audio Visual Club runs tape recordings, shows films, runs record players, film strips, projectors, micro projectors, and over-head opaque projectors.

Many people fail to realize that the letters, "TABS", stand for Teen Age Book Club. "Tabs" does a service for the students of Calumet by selling books. The books that they sell are full length originals, not condensed, they are the ever-popular paper backs, so commonly found in high schools. The "Tabs" do a good business since the books they sell range from novels, informative books, cross-words, to everyday reading material.

Bob Nanny and Larry Lockhart are returning the projector to the library after finishing the showing of a film.

Carolyn Patterson, president of Tabs, and Doris Brown, secretary-treasurer, check the orders for books off of their permanent list.

Drivers' Perform Services For Calumet

Jack Weitze, a member of Drivers' Club, checks to see if his car is locked, something which every safe and careful driver should do.

Many students who drive to school are interested in Drivers Club. The Club is based on driver safety at school and everywhere.

Four members of the club, Loyal Beasley, Marvin Qualls, Lynn Meyers, and Nancy Martin attended a safety convention in Hammond to help them learn more about driver safety.

At various intervals the club members have a car check in the school parking area to make sure that the cars are in safe condition. To see who was the best driver, the club had a car "roadeo" in the parking lot this year. In this "roadeo" the first prize was 25 gallons of gas, second was 15 gallons and third was 5 gallons.

Checking over the notes of their last meeting are Jack Weitze, president of Drivers' Club, and Karen Bounds, secretary.

On Many Occasions

For those girls who wish to go into the commercial field, Calumet offers courses in bookkeeping, typing, shorthand, and other subjects dealing with the business world. These girls may then go on to join an organization known as the Secretarial Club.

Here the girls are trained for work as secretaries and stenographers. They are assigned to a teacher and help him by doing typing, grading papers, and handling correspondence. Each year a $100 scholarship is given to the girl who has done the most outstanding work as a secretary.

This club plays an important role in preparing girls for the increasing demands for efficient secretaries in business and industry.

Choral Department Forms

Officers of the A cappella Choir: Judy Carpenter, vice-president; Pat Hammonds, secretary; and Janet Charbonneau, president; look over several selections of music.

Calumet's Choral Department includes four principal choirs: A cappella Choir, Girls' Choir, Girls' Chorus, and Boys' Chorus. In addition to these classes, there are now two independent singing groups: the popular Madrigal Group and the new girls' ensemble, "The Cinducts". The "Mads" sing for club initiations and P.T.A. meetings while "The Cinducts", a group of 21 girls, were introduced at the Christmas Choral Concert.

A cappella Choir sent several soloists and singing groups to the Lew Wallace Vocal Sectionals. The Choir also received an invitation to sing in the Hobart Spring Music Festival.

In December of 1962, the A cappella went Christmas caroling in the area grade schools.

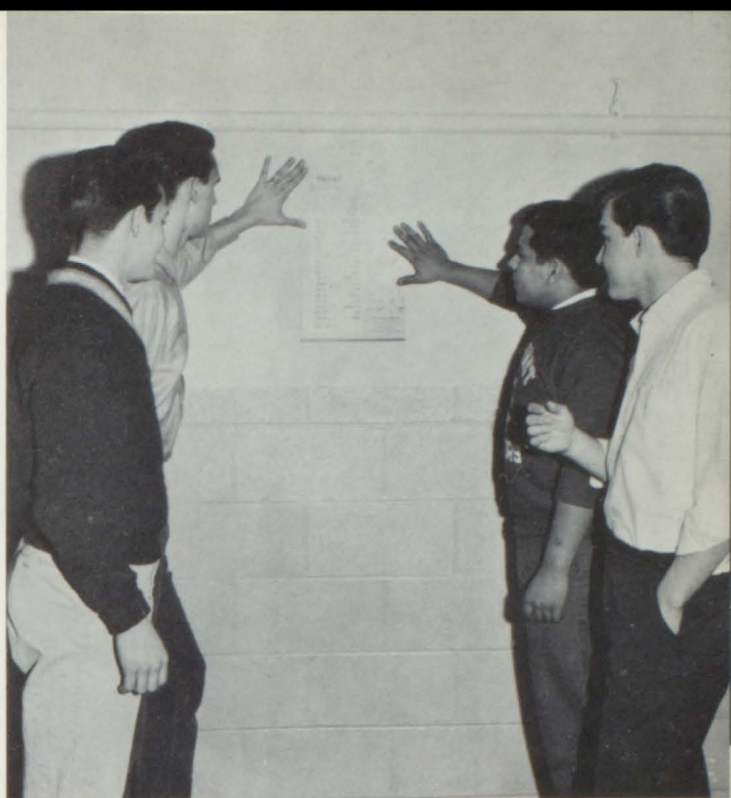

Pep Club, one of the newest organizations at C.H.S., has currently finished its first year of service. Approximately 80 students joined the club whose purpose is to boost school spirit and take an interest in athletics.

Chief objectives of the club include a cheering block at the basketball games and bus transportation to away games, as well as supporting other athletic teams during the school year.

Since the club is in its first year, much organizing had to be done. Officers were elected, and committees were formed to set up the foundation of the club.

Pep Club dues went toward the purchase of free bus transportation for its members.

Tentative plans were also made for the sale of Calumet book covers.

Checking the games that the members of Pep Club must attend are the officers: Bob Rumba, vice-president; Ron Fortner, secretary; Tony Valencia, treasurer; and Mike Lawell, president.

What goes into the making of an outstanding yearbook? Too many students don't stop to realize what work and co-operation, as well as capable direction, it takes to produce the finished product they receive in May.

For months staff members slave to the tune of "All I demand is excellence" in order to meet those 44 page deadlines. And for what? Because they know that no matter how personal feelings may suffer, they are all working toward one mutual goal, an outstanding yearbook, the 1963 Chieftain.

Deadlines missed and "lifeless" cutlines don't insure a product they will be proud to distribute in May. That is why they all strive, under the direction of their capable editors, Pat Ross and Carolyn Patterson, to aid in the perfection of the finished product, "That Wonderful Year, 1963".

Keeping track of all the basketball scores, as well as football and track, is the job of Chuck Jones, sports editor.

Members of the Chieftain staff, Barbara Nasby and Jackie McLean, work hard to make the last deadline by typing copy onto the Tri-Collates.

Sports

"That Wonderful Year, 1963," has given many students at C.H.S. memories of exciting football, basketball, and baseball games. Calumet's "Harriers" walked away with the title of Calumet Conference Champs, and the Varsity Gridders set the first winning season in the seven-year pigskin history of the school.

This kind of school spirit and willingness to win gives the students and faculty members something to be proud of and also gives us fond memories of exciting times.

Basketball seasons at Calumet have come and gone under the able leadership of Coach Chris Traicoff. During his many years as coach he has managed to compile over a 70-percent average. When his boys are short, and not so fast, they manage to gain experience through practice.

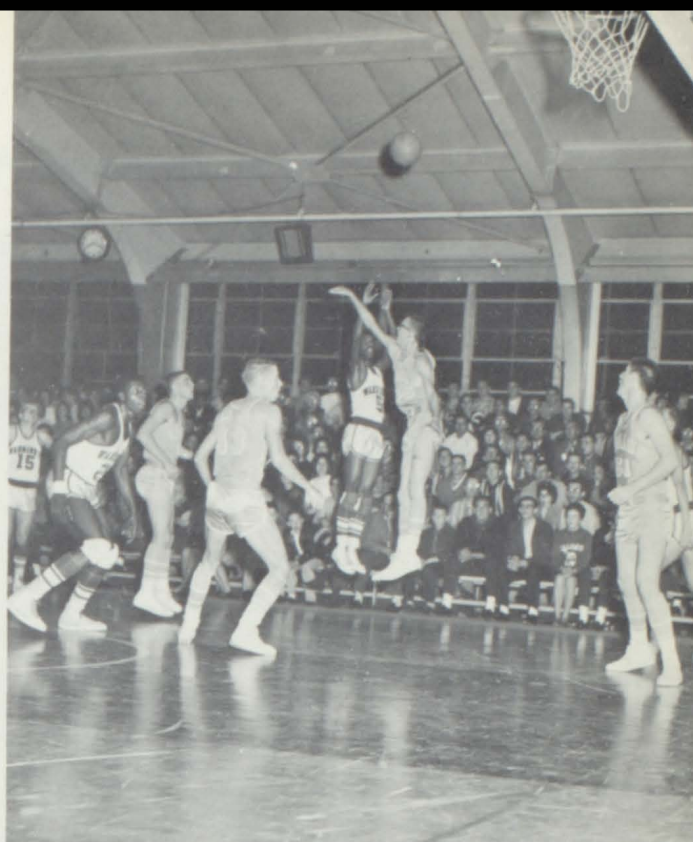

This year's team consists of many juniors and sophomores, but the team has three very able seniors; Tom Kirklin, Bob Miller, and Tom Cook who have the experience and stamina to hold the team together.

If this team picks up next year where they leave off now they will be good contenders in the Calumet Conference.

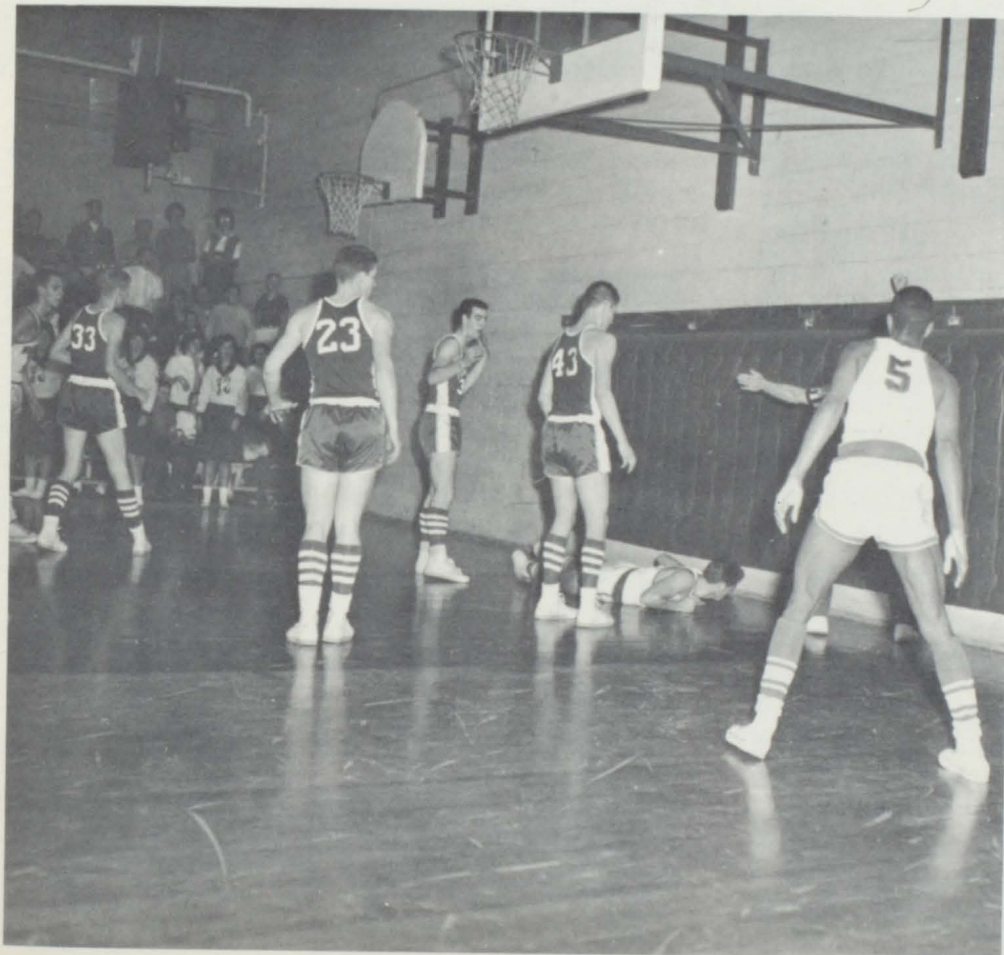

Than Fair Season

Clarence Harper, despite all efforts of Emerson Norsemen, rises above players to score two more points for Calumet.

Tom Kirklin puts in a twenty-footer, regardless of Dyer Indians effort to stop it.

"It's not under there," explains Bob Miller, after a spill during the Hebron game.

Freshmen Warriors Finish '62-63 Season

(Top Row); S. Cogdill, L. Vaupel, J. Coffman, M. Ratica, G. Nimetz, D. Coleman, J. Croslin, J. Reynolds, D. Sink, C. Peddy-coart.

Calumet's freshmen basketball squad led by John Santos, Doug Sink, and John Coffman helped to turn in a 7--9 season for the young team. The Coach, Mr. Don Starkey, taught the young and inexperienced team many important plays, that helped them to compile this record. The team played a basketball season with great sportsmanship and effort. If the teams that are formed in the future have as much patience and so much willingness to win, Calumet should turn out some exceptionally good teams.

School does not always end on Friday at Calumet. On Saturday morning many students participate in intramural basketball games, made up of different students who have formed their own teams. A few of the teams who have done very well are the Conquistadores, Monarchs, and Celtics. A few who have managed to stay in the top ten are the Blimpstones, Alley Cats, Top Cats, and the Nomads.

Some 65 students participate in these 30 minute games and play other teams on scheduled dates. At the end of the season the teams are ranked according to their number of wins and losses. The one with the most wins is the champion for the intramural season. The winner this year was the fine team, the Nomads.

Varsity And B Team Cheerleaders Inspire

Varsity cheerleaders take time out from their busy schedule. They are: Carolyn Duke, Vivian McCoy, Rayette Ashby, Karen Bjorklund, Jo Orban, and Judy Carpenter.

Fans To Cheer Boys On

"Practice makes perfect," and that is the attitude of the B team Cheerleaders; Judy Harris, Candy Carpenter, Anna Stigall, and Janis Rister.

Two groups of girls, the varsity and B team cheerleaders, put forth a lot of effort and much time toward boosting school spirit at Calumet. These girls along with the Pep Club make up the pep block at all basketball and football games. Aside from enthusiasm, and courtesy, they are also responsible for the appearance of the pep block as well as their own appearance. This year for the first time, they are supervised by Miss Pauline Yatsko, Pep Club sponsor. She is responsible for the cheerleader's motions, transportation, and appropriate cheers. The varsity puts in an average of about an hour a week practice time, not to mention three weeks of daily practice during the summer.

The B team cheerleaders include Judy Harris, Candy Carpenter, Janice Rister, and Anna Stigall, all cheering in their first year, while the varsity cheerleaders are Jo Orban, two years; Carolyn Duke, three years; Vivian McCoy, three years; Judy Carpenter, three years; Captain Rayette Ashby, three years; and Karen Bjorklund, three years.

Calumet's gridiron fans were especially pleased with the 4-3-1 season set by the Warrior gridmen. This was the first winning season for the gridders in the seven year pigskin history of the school.

Much of the teams success was accredited to a very strong wall of defense, Tom Cook's hard running along with Ernie Tall's pin Point passing and place kicker. John Santos, outstanding freshman, led the team in many victories.

Attendance and school spirit were contributing factors in the record set by Calumet's gridmen.

Calumet's Gridders Have First Winning Season

Tom Cook gains yardage against Andrean. Warriors score first down in game against Andrean 'Niners. Carrying the ball is Tom Cook, halfback.

Bob Miller tackles Griffith opponent. Cookie Bewick gains valuable yardage against Griffith Panthers.

In Seven Years

Warriors give up ball to Andrean with punt kicked by Bob Miller. Tall makes first down with quarter back sneak.

Freshmen Gridders End Second Successful Season

Calumet's freshmen grid team successfully finished the 1962-63 season with only one defeat. The gridders having an excellent team this year was coached by Mr. Lenny Schmidt. The team beat seven area schools.

Much of their success was due to the hard running of Ed Chestovich and John Santos. These freshmen gridders scored in every game.

These freshmen, if they keep up the work next year on the Varsity team, will probably beat the outstanding record set this year.

"That Wonderful Year, 1963"

Faces, Teachers, Students, Administrators

In the years to come, when we brush the dust off our old annuals and sit back to relive events of high school life, we'll probably find that most memorable were our friends and classmates. With these friends we shared joys and sadnesses, surprises and disappointments. No matter what walk of life we choose or where these vocations take us these friends will never be forgotten.

The 1963 Chieftain opens for us a storehouse of memories of high school life. On the following pages are pictured the friends with which we shared "That Wonderful Year, 1963".

To the "Class of '63" each event this year has some special significance. Soon after Homecoming, seniors ordered their name cards and graduation announcements. Following Christmas vacation, the "Class of '63" was measured for caps and gowns-- graduation seemed all too near.

As the year drew to a close, everything happened much too quickly. In April, the "Class of '64" presented the Prom in honor of the seniors. The senior banquet and senior party were also memorable events to each senior.

The class committee and class officers selected a gift, which was presented to the school.

Award Day, 1963. The seniors, attired in caps and gowns, went before the student body on their final day of school. Baccalaureate soon followed and finally graduation night.

As each senior stands dressed in cap and gown and lined up awaiting the procession into the auditorium, he will surely recall all the happenings in "That Wonderful Year, 1963."

The "Class of '64" have become upperclassmen. As juniors, they faced the enormous responsibility of the Prom. The theme, "Three Coins In A Fountain," was chosen, and the Hotel Gary selected as the location. Both class officers and planning committee worked diligently to create a successful Prom for the graduating "Class of '63." A candy sale was arranged, and the class made $400 on it. In addition, they sponsored the Homecoming Dance.

At the end of the year, the class heads selected the photographer to take their senior pictures.

A hectic year of planning and work now lies behind the "Class of '64", but it is as sure that they will remember their first year as upperclassmen as it is that they will look forward with great expectations to their next and last year of high school.

After two years at Calumet the "Class of '65" is beginning to feel at ease as sophomores, but they will soon have to shed the old title and become upperclassmen. However, we're certain they will find their new title places them in quite a comfortable position. They, in their two years here have lost the uneasiness that comes with being freshmen, obtained firm footholds in the high school social circle, established themselves as individual personalities, and above all stored up a treasure house of memories not easily forgotten of that "Wonderful Year, 1963".

"Well, they'll be seniors someday," was the only comment made when a teacher was asked to say something nice about the freshmen. Remember, it is tradition to catch all the blows the first year in high school.

The class of 1966 has already begun to make a good showing, starting at the football homecoming, where they received first prize for their float, which represented Japan.

They have also started to build their treasury with the money received from their first dance.

So, "That Wonderful Year, 1963" draws to a close leaving the freshmen with their first year of memories. Considering everything, one must admit that the freshmen are the luckiest class at Calumet. They have three years left. "The low men on the totem pole" they may well be, but there is no denying they are the seniors of tomorrow.

Underclassmen Caught In Frolics-Outstanding

"Come on, fellows, let me in," says sophomore Bill Chancellor to his classmate pranksters, Buddy Reigle and Kenny Dees.

Tom Patterson, a bewildered freshman, seems to be having a little trouble in deciding whether to go in or to stay out.

These studious freshmen girls take a few minutes out from their studies to eat a bite of lunch. They are: Judy Ferrell, Marie Pinkstaff, Cheryl Ash, Rita Ralph, Kathy Potter, Linda St. Meyers, and Linda Pruitt.

Seniors Look Ahead

Carolyn Patterson and Charles Bewick, voted by their classmates as outstanding seniors, vision themselves in their future vocations.

Mr. John M. Tsangaris, new assistant principal, studies some papers, only one of his many important duties.

It's just a little conference between the office personnel. Mrs. Corinne Redar, bookkeeper and treasurer, Mrs. Shirley Pinkstaff, secretary, and Mrs. Fran Coros, secretary, look at a paper typed by Mrs. Pinkstaff.

Many responsibilities arise in publishing a yearbook that subscribers often do not realize. A good deal of effort, time, and money are involved. Often times money is the major obstacle, "The Chieftain" staff makes provisions to finance its' publication by soliciting the businessmen in the community for advertisements.

In the following pages are the merchants who co-operatively supported the school.

As a member of the Senior Class, very soon you will be making a decision regarding a big step into the future. Perhaps your decision will be to go on for further education. Or it may be, you will be looking for the job of your choice. In either event, this decision will affect and shape your future life in many ways.

Regardless of what you decide, we hope that the Inland Steel Company will be a part of your future.

Many graduates are currently involved in successful careers here at the Harbor Works as part of the nation's basic steel industry.

Steel mill work today is highly complex, involving automated production lines which require people who can be trained in skilled jobs. Most of the jobs are involved directly in the steel-making process while others are available in the laboratories or in various departmental offices. Regardless of your interests, excellent opportunities exist with Inland Steel.

In addition to excellent paying jobs and an outstanding benefit program, Inland offers a variety of on-the-job training programs plus the Purdue-Inland Program. This Program, offered to a full time employee, provides training in the areas of steelmaking, mechanics, and electricity.

Plan now to investigate the many opportunities for your future with Inland Steel Company.
